0) Introduce yourself

Hello! My name is Alex, and I am 40 years old. My life is full of interesting adventures. I love traveling, learning new things, and meeting people. I have climbed mountains, visited deserts, and sailed across beautiful blue seas. I also enjoy writing and taking photographs to share my adventures with others. I believe every day is a chance to do something exciting. When I am not traveling, I like to spend time reading books or cooking delicious food. I also teach young people about the world and inspire them to follow their dreams. Life, for me, is like a big journey, and I love every moment of it. I always tell people to live with courage and curiosity.

1) Describe your job and education

I work as a travel journalist, and my job is very exciting. I visit different places all around the world. I write stories about the people, food, and culture of these places. I also take photographs of beautiful mountains, rivers, and cities. Before I got this job, I went to university and studied English literature. I always loved reading books and writing stories. Later, I took extra courses in photography and journalism because I wanted to learn how to write for magazines. My job lets me see new places and meet new people every day. It also teaches me a lot about the world. I feel lucky because my work is also my passion. It is hard sometimes, but it is always interesting.

2) Describe your family

I have a small but wonderful family. My wife, Lily, is a kind and creative person who loves painting. She makes beautiful art that we hang all around our home. We have two children, Emma and Jack. Emma is 12 years old and loves reading books, just like I do. Jack is 8, and he is very curious about the world. He loves building things with blocks and asking me a hundred questions every day! We also have a dog named Max. He is part of our family and loves going on adventures with us. My parents live in a nearby city, and I visit them often. They taught me to be kind, brave, and curious. My family is my greatest treasure. We laugh, play, and share so many happy memories together.

3) Describe one typical day in your life

A typical day in my life is always busy but exciting. I wake up early, around 6:30 a.m., because I like to start my day with energy. First, I make coffee and enjoy a quiet moment while planning my day. Then, I spend an hour writing or editing photos for my travel articles. Around 9 a.m., I go to a local café to meet a friend or talk to someone new for an interview. After that, I usually visit a nearby place, like a park or museum, to take pictures or gather more ideas. In the afternoon, I work on my articles, answering emails and sending my work to the magazine. By evening, I spend time with my family, helping my kids with homework or cooking dinner together. Before bed, I read a book or watch a documentary. Every day feels different, and I love the mix of work and family time.

4) Describe a friend of yours

My best friend is Daniel, and we have known each other for more than 20 years. Daniel is very funny and always makes people laugh. He is an adventurer like me, and we often travel together. He loves hiking in the mountains and camping under the stars. One time, we got lost in the forest during a hike, but Daniel stayed calm and helped us find the way back. He is also very talented; he plays the guitar and writes songs. When we meet, he always brings his guitar, and we sing together. Daniel is also very kind. He once helped a stray dog and found it a home. I feel lucky to have a friend like him because he is loyal, smart, and full of great ideas.

5) Describe your neighborhood and city

I live in a friendly neighborhood in a small city near the mountains. My street is full of trees, and in the spring, flowers bloom everywhere. My neighbors are kind and helpful; we always greet each other with smiles. There is a park nearby where kids play and families have picnics. Sometimes, I take my dog, Max, for a walk there. My city is not very big, but it has everything I need. There are cozy cafés, small shops, and a big library where I love to read. On weekends, people visit the local market to buy fresh fruits and vegetables. The best part about my city is the view of the mountains. It feels peaceful to live here, but it's also close to bigger cities if I need to travel. It's the perfect mix of quiet and adventure.

6) Do you work out? (Sports)

Yes, I work out regularly because staying active is very important to me. I love running in the morning. It makes me feel fresh and full of energy for the day. Sometimes, I go cycling with my kids around the park. On weekends, I play football with my friends. It's a lot of fun, and we laugh a lot during the game. I also enjoy swimming when I have time. It's a great way to relax and exercise at the same time. If the weather is nice, I go hiking in the mountains or take long walks in nature. Sometimes, I try yoga at home to stretch my body and calm my mind. Working out keeps me healthy and happy. It also gives me more energy to do all the things I love.

7) What do you do to have fun?

For fun, I do many different things! I love traveling to new places and trying local food. I also enjoy taking photographs of interesting things like sunsets, animals, and old buildings. At home, I play board games with my family, which always makes us laugh. Sometimes, I go fishing with my friends. It's peaceful and exciting at the same time. I also enjoy listening to music and singing along when nobody is watching! On weekends, I like to watch movies or read adventure books. If I have more free time, I try new hobbies, like painting or learning a new recipe to cook. Having fun is important, and I make sure to enjoy life every single day.

8) Describe your favorite TV series

My favorite TV series is Planet Earth. It is about nature, animals, and the beauty of the world. Each episode shows amazing places like rainforests, deserts, and oceans. The photography is so beautiful that it feels like you are there. I love learning about how animals live, hunt, and survive. One episode showed penguins in Antarctica, and I couldn't stop smiling because they were so funny! Another episode was about the jungle, with colorful birds and wild tigers. The series is exciting and teaches me something new every time I watch it. I also enjoy sharing what I learn with my kids. Planet Earth makes me love nature even more and inspires me to explore the world.

9) Tell me about your name

My name is Alex, which is short for Alexander. My parents gave me this name because they wanted something strong and simple. They told me it means "defender of the people." I like my name because it is easy to say and remember. Many people I meet also like the name Alex because it feels friendly. Growing up, I sometimes wondered what it would be like to have a different name, but now I think it suits me perfectly. My friends sometimes call me "Al" or "A," which is fun and makes me feel close to them. Names are special because they become part of who we are. I feel proud of my name because it connects me to my family and my story.

10) Do you drive? How did you learn it?

Yes, I drive, and I really enjoy it! I learned to drive when I was 18 years old. My father taught me in an old car that we still have today. At first, I was very nervous and made mistakes, like forgetting to use the turn signal. But my father was patient and gave me good advice. We practiced every weekend on quiet roads. Soon, I got better and felt more confident. I passed my driving test on the first try, which made me very happy. Now, I love driving to new places and exploring. Long drives in the countryside are my favorite. I even take my family on road trips, where we listen to music and enjoy the journey together.

11) What did you do yesterday?

Yesterday was a busy and fun day! I woke up early and went for a run in the park. After breakfast, I worked on a travel article about my last trip to the mountains. Around noon, I met a friend for lunch at a café. We talked about our future plans and laughed a lot. In the afternoon, I took my kids to the zoo. They were so excited to see the lions and elephants! Later, we came home, and I helped them with their homework. For dinner, my wife and I cooked spaghetti together. After dinner, we watched a movie as a family. Before bed, I read a chapter of my favorite book. It was a perfect mix of work, family, and relaxation.

12) How did you spend your childhood?

My childhood was full of fun and adventures. I grew up in a small town near a forest. My friends and I spent hours playing outside. We built treehouses, went fishing in the river, and climbed trees to pick fruits. In the summer, we loved swimming in the lake near our town. During winter, we made snowmen and had snowball fights. I also enjoyed reading books, especially stories about explorers and faraway places. My parents were very supportive and encouraged me to try new things. They took me on trips to the city and the mountains, which made me curious about the world. I also loved helping my grandparents on their farm. My childhood was simple but exciting, and it taught me to enjoy life's little moments.

13) A particular memory from school

One memory from school that I will never forget was my first science project. I decided to make a small volcano using baking soda and vinegar. I worked hard on it for a week, and my parents helped me with the painting. On the day of the science fair, I was so nervous. When it was my turn, I poured the vinegar into the volcano, and it erupted perfectly! Everyone clapped, and my teacher smiled at me. She said I did a great job, and I felt so proud. That moment gave me confidence to try new things. It also made me love science. From then on, I always enjoyed making projects and learning about how things work.

14) Tell me about a time you were so afraid

I remember a time when I was very afraid during a hiking trip. I was climbing a mountain with my friends, and suddenly the weather changed. Dark clouds appeared, and it started to rain heavily. The path became slippery, and we couldn't see clearly. I was scared that we might fall or get lost. My heart was beating so fast! We decided to stop and wait for the rain to pass. My friend Daniel stayed calm and reminded us to stay close to each other. After some time, the rain stopped, and we carefully walked back to safety. That experience taught me to always check the weather before hiking. It was frightening, but I learned to stay calm in difficult situations.

15) How did you meet your wife/husband?

I met my wife, Lily, during a photography workshop. I was there to learn about nature photography, and she was teaching the class. She was kind and patient, and she explained everything so clearly. I was amazed by her talent and passion for art. During a break, we started talking about our favorite places to visit, and we realized we both loved traveling. After the workshop, I asked her if she wanted to go for coffee, and she said yes. We talked for hours and discovered we had so much in common. Over time, we became best friends and then fell in love. Now, we enjoy traveling and creating art together. Meeting her was one of the best moments of my life.

16) Tell me about a time when you had a problem with a hotel

One time, I stayed at a hotel during a trip to a new city, and the experience was not good. When I arrived, I found that my room was very small and not clean. The bed was messy, and the bathroom had no towels. I went to the front desk to complain, but the staff didn't seem to care. They told me to wait, but nobody came to fix the problem. I decided to find another hotel nearby, and luckily, I found one with better service. I learned an important lesson: always read reviews before booking a hotel. Now, I make sure to check everything carefully so that I can avoid such problems in the future.

17) A time when you had a problem with one of your friends

One time, my friend Daniel and I had a big misunderstanding. We planned a trip together, but I forgot to confirm the dates with him. He thought we were leaving on Friday, but I planned for Saturday. When Friday came, he called me angrily, saying he was waiting at the bus station. I felt bad and apologized, but he was still upset. Later, I met him in person, and we talked about what happened. I explained that it was a mistake and promised to communicate better in the future. Daniel forgave me, and we laughed about it later. Now, we always double-check our plans. That experience taught me how important it is to be clear and organized.

18) A time when you helped somebody

I remember helping an old man carry his groceries one rainy evening. I was walking home when I saw him struggling with heavy bags. The rain was making it harder for him, so I ran over and asked if he needed help. He smiled and said yes. I carried his bags to his house, which was just a few streets away. He thanked me and even offered me some tea, but I kindly said I needed to go home. It felt good to help him. Small acts of kindness can make a big difference in someone's day, and I always look for ways to help others whenever I can.

19) Tell me about a time when you were punished by your parents or teacher

When I was a child, I once broke a vase while playing football inside the house. My mother had told me many times not to play inside, but I didn't listen. When the ball hit the vase, it fell and shattered into pieces. I was so scared and didn't know what to do. My mother was upset and asked me to clean up the mess. As punishment, she didn't let me play outside for a whole week. I felt very sad because I loved playing with my friends. I also had to use my pocket money to help buy a new vase. That experience taught me to listen to my parents and to be more careful. I never played football indoors again after that.

20) Did you ever get lost?

Yes, I once got lost in a big market when I was about 10 years old. I went shopping with my parents, and there were so many people everywhere. I stopped to look at some toys, but when I turned around, my parents were gone. I felt scared and started walking around to find them. After a while, I saw a kind shopkeeper, and I told him I was lost. He asked me my parents' names and made an announcement over the market speaker. A few minutes later, my father found me and gave me a big hug. I was so relieved. Since then, I've learned to always stay close to my family in crowded places.

21) How did you learn driving?

I learned to drive when I was 18. My father was my teacher, and we used his old car for practice. At first, I was very nervous. I couldn't even start the car without stalling! My father was patient and taught me step by step. We started on empty roads, where I practiced steering, braking, and parking. After a few weeks, we moved to busier streets. It was scary at first, but I slowly got used to it. I practiced every weekend until I felt confident. Finally, I passed my driving test on the first try. Learning to drive was not easy, but it gave me freedom and independence. Now, I enjoy long drives, especially to new places.

22) A memory from university

One of my favorite memories from university was joining a hiking club. Every weekend, we went to different places like mountains, forests, and rivers. One time, we camped overnight in the mountains. We made a big campfire, cooked food, and sang songs under the stars. It was so peaceful and beautiful. During that trip, I also made some of my best friends. We spent hours talking and laughing around the fire. The next morning, we watched the sunrise together, and it was magical. Those moments taught me to enjoy nature and value friendships. Even now, I stay in touch with those friends and cherish the memories we made.

23) A very happy memory you remember

One of the happiest memories I have is the day my first book was published. I had worked on the book for over a year, writing stories from my travels around the world. When I held the book in my hands for the first time, I felt so proud and excited. My family and friends organized a small celebration for me. They decorated the room with balloons and even made a cake shaped like a book! That day, many people told me they loved reading my stories. It felt amazing to know that my work could inspire others. It was a dream come true and one of the best days of my life.

24) A party that you went to

Last month, I went to a surprise birthday party for my friend Daniel. His wife planned everything secretly and invited all his friends. The party was held in a beautiful garden decorated with lights and flowers. When Daniel arrived, we all shouted, "Surprise!" He was so happy and couldn't stop smiling. There was music, dancing, and delicious food. We played fun games and shared stories about Daniel's adventures. Later, there was a big cake with candles, and we all sang for him. It was a wonderful evening full of laughter and joy. Everyone had a great time, and Daniel said it was the best birthday he ever had.

25) Describe a trip you took to another city or country

Last year, I visited Paris, France, for the first time, and it was unforgettable. I spent five days exploring the city's beautiful streets and famous landmarks. The Eiffel Tower was incredible, especially at night when it sparkled with lights. I also visited the Louvre Museum and saw amazing art, including the Mona Lisa. One of my favorite moments was walking along the Seine River and watching street performers. The food in Paris was amazing too! I tried croissants, crepes, and delicious French cheese. I even learned a few French words like "bonjour" and "merci." The city felt magical, and I took hundreds of pictures to remember the trip. I can't wait to go back someday.

26) Tell me about your tomorrow's plan

Tomorrow will be a busy and exciting day! I plan to wake up early and start with a morning walk in the park. After breakfast, I'll work on editing some photos from my recent trip to the mountains. Around 10 a.m., I have a meeting with a magazine editor to discuss a new travel article. In the afternoon, I'll visit a bookstore to pick up some novels for my kids and myself. Later, I promised my son to help him build a model airplane, which we've been working on together. In the evening, my wife and I plan to cook dinner as a family activity. After that, we might watch a movie or play a board game with the kids. Before bed, I'll read a chapter from my book. It sounds like a full day, but I enjoy every moment.

27) Tell me about your job's plan

For my job, I have several plans to focus on. This week, I'll finish writing a travel article about my visit to a small island last month. I also plan to start working on a photo series about city life, capturing the energy and movement of busy streets. Next month, I have a trip planned to a historical city where I will collect new stories and take photographs for my blog. I'm also planning to give a talk at a school about my adventures as a travel writer. My goal is to inspire young people to explore and be curious about the world. I hope to publish another book this year, so I need to organize all my ideas and start writing soon. Every day, I try to do something that brings me closer to my dreams.

28) Predict your child's future

I believe my children, Emma and Jack, will have bright and exciting futures. Emma loves reading and writing stories, so I think she might become a writer or a teacher. She is creative and loves helping others, so she might also work in something that inspires people. Jack is curious about how things work and loves building with blocks. I think he might become an engineer or an inventor. He has a big imagination, so maybe he'll even create something amazing one day! Whatever they choose, I hope they follow their dreams and stay kind and hardworking. I will always support them and remind them that anything is possible if they believe in themselves.

29) How will the world end?

It's hard to say how the world might end, but I hope it doesn't happen for a very, very long time. Some people think it could end because of natural disasters like a huge asteroid hitting the Earth or climate change. Others imagine things like robots taking over or people fighting too much. But I like to believe that humans are smart and will find solutions to protect the planet. If we all work together, take care of nature, and use technology wisely, we can make the world a better place. Instead of thinking about the end, I like to focus on how we can build a brighter future for everyone.

30) What would you do if you were invisible? And why?

If I were invisible, I think it would be fun and helpful. I would use my invisibility to explore places quietly, like ancient castles or hidden parts of forests, without disturbing anything. I might also help people who are in trouble, like stopping a thief or rescuing an animal. Being invisible could also be useful for learning, as I could listen to great scientists or artists to understand their work better. But I would not use my invisibility to scare people or invade their privacy. It's important to use such a power for good reasons. Mostly, I would enjoy the freedom of moving around unnoticed and discovering the secrets of the world.

31) What would you do if you found out your son was married without telling you?

If my son got married without telling me, I would be surprised and a little hurt. I would want to know why he didn't share such an important moment with the family. But instead of getting angry, I would talk to him calmly and ask him about his decision. Maybe he had a good reason, like feeling nervous or wanting to keep things simple. I would also ask to meet his wife and welcome her into the family. Marriage is a big step, and I would want to support him and make sure he knows he can always share his life with us. In the end, I would focus on being happy for him and helping him build a strong, loving relationship.

32) What would you do if you saw a ghost now?

If I saw a ghost right now, I would feel scared at first, but I'd try to stay calm. I believe ghosts might have stories to tell or messages to share. I would try to understand if the ghost was friendly or if it needed help. Maybe it's someone who lost their way and wants to communicate. If I couldn't talk to it, I might call someone who knows about such things, like a spiritual expert or a friend who believes in ghosts. I wouldn't run away unless it felt dangerous. Seeing a ghost would be an unforgettable experience, and I'd probably write about it later!

33) What will you do in the future when you become rich?

If I become rich in the future, I would first take care of my family and make sure they have everything they need. Then, I would travel to all the places I've always dreamed of, like the Amazon rainforest and the pyramids in Egypt. I would also give back to the community by helping children get a good education and supporting people who need food and shelter. Another dream of mine is to open a small library or art center where people can learn and create. I would still do the things I love, like writing and photography, but with more resources to make them better. Being rich is not just about money; it's about making a difference in the world and living a meaningful life.
